Description

Description:	As the largest Croatian peninsula, Istria has been enchanting many visitors from all over the world for decades. In addition to the popular tourist destinations on the coast, more and more people are discovering the hidden beauties of the interior, which complete the image of Istria as an equally green and blue destination. In a quiet village in the southern part of central Istria, in an idyllic location, there is this regularly shaped plot of land. The land is for construction purposes and has an area of 2470 m². The land is accessed from an asphalted road, and the water and electricity connections are located on the land itself, so the future owner does not have additional costs for bringing the necessary infrastructure. Several vacation homes with swimming pools have already been built in the area, so this land offers the future buyer a great opportunity to create a family home or to build a vacation home that can serve as a tourist rental.
