The people of Premantura are surrounded by nature that few can boast of. South of the village is Cape Kamenjak – a protected landscape 9.5 kilometers long, about 1.5 kilometers wide with a total of 30 kilometers of indented coastline. The sea is nowhere of such a blue-green color, as clean as in this extreme south of Istria. Rocky beaches alternate with pebbly coves. Premantura is an experience, not a vacation spot. Those who want to dive into the deep blue will be helped by the local diving centers. This is one of the few destinations that has a beach designed for blind people. It is certainly worth pointing out that people who need dialysis can also spend their summer there, since there is a private dialysis clinic in the village. Premantura is an adventure.
