Description

Description:	ISTRIA, BUJE - Secluded land, last in the construction zone, view of Buje and the sea The medieval town of Buje is located on the northwestern part of the Istrian peninsula. It is located on top of a hill from which there is a beautiful view of the sea, the surrounding hills, vineyards and olive groves. Proximity to the sea, influence of the Mediterranean and mild continental climate, tradition in agricultural production, hunting and tourism, hilly landscape and preserved and unpolluted nature make the area of the town of Buje one of the most attractive areas of the Istrian peninsula. A few minutes' drive from Buje, there is this sensational plot of 1,765 m², with a spectacular view of the sea, Buje and Brdašac, making it perfect for lovers of nature and views. The land is the last in the construction zone, it is surrounded by agricultural lands on two sides, thus ensuring an unobstructed view of the surrounding nature. Construction is also not allowed on the other two sides, and therefore this land is isolated, with no close neighbors in the future. The settlement is about 150 meters away, electricity and water as well. A macadam access road leads to the land. Considering the area of the land, the future owner can split the land in half and build two villas, live in one and rent the other, thus returning the invested investment. Opportunity! Dear clients, the agency commission is charged in accordance with the General Business
