Situated on the slopes of hill St. Ilija with stunning views of the sea and the island of Korčula, this house represents a blend of history and comfort. The ground floor, first floor, and attic of the house make 400 sqm of residential space. Currently divided into two units, both for sale. Behind the house, there is a typical Dalmatian tavern, a traditional space for storing food and wine. In 1993, the roof of the entire house was renovated, with partial reconstruction of the western half. One of the most impressive parts of this house is the beautiful terrace that spreads along the entire property. From the terrace, there is a spectacular open view of the sea and the island of Korčula, creating an idyllic setting for relaxation and enjoying nature. The property's grounds are surrounded by spacious vineyards, further enriching the environment. The vineyards not only add aesthetic value but also provide the opportunity for growing local grape varieties, making this place even more authentic and appealing. This property represents an excellent investment opportunity for business ventures such as a tavern/restaurant and boutique hotel, enriched with additional amenities that make guests' stay an
