Description

Description:

Istria, Kanfanar, surroundings Near the medieval fortress Dvigrad, in a beautiful autochthonous small town, there is this house with a spacious garden. The house is in an excellent position, with a view of the surroundings, which is pure nature. The great thing is that this place is in a great position because it borders many municipalities nearby, and Kanfanar as a larger place is a few minutes drive away with all its city facilities such as shops, educational and health institutions. The house covers an area of 164m², of which 70m² is living space, and the rest are carports and open and covered terraces. In addition to all that, the house also has a large woodshed in the yard of 25 m². The house has two floors, ground floor and attic. On the ground floor, we come across a hallway that leads us to all the rooms, such as the living room with kitchen and dining room, two bedrooms, and a spacious bathroom. An internal staircase leads to the attic, which houses another bedroom with its own bathroom. This room has a terrace with a view and is exceptionally well lit throughout the day. There is another room with a lot of potential that is still waiting for its purpose. In the living room we have a beautiful large fireplace, which provides a really special atmosphere when the fire is lit. In addition to the fireplace, there is also a wood stove for heating, and the air conditioner is responsible for cooling. The yard is landscaped and maintained, and in addition to the woodshed, there is also a large garage that comfortably accommodates one car, while in front of the garage, if necessary, there is also a large canopy that is an ideal shelter from the rain and the warm sun in the summer months. If you want to grill and enjoy the house, the outdoor kitchen and another fireplace will take care of that. Also, in addition to the well-maintained garden, it is cultivated with various Mediterranean plants, and there are also old olive trees, one of which is almost a century old. With all that said, this property has it all. From the possibility of living in the countryside to tourist rentals, considering that there are several tourist facilities in the vicinity with high occupancy. She has everything, she just needs a new owner who will use her full potential and start making her wishes come true! ID CODE: 1029-322
