become an important seaport. The city of Rijeka lies at the mouth of the river Rječina in the Kvarner microregion Kvarner littoral at the border of 2 historical regions separated by Rječina, so with Sušak the Croatian littoral begins, and to the west of Rječina begins Julijska krajina, a historical area from Soča in the west to Rječina in the east. Two important land traffic routes start in Rijeka. The first takes advantage of the fact that Rijeka is located in the area where the Dinarides are the narrowest (about fifty kilometers), which makes it easier to connect the coast of the Adriatic Sea and the Pannonian interior, while the second connects Rijeka to the Eastern Alpine area via the Postojna Gate.
